Today we say good bye today to a great man. A flawed man. One with a huge and giving heart and one with a stubborn streak to match it. One with brut strength and strength of mind. Kindness to never forget those who had less. My uncle who never missed one of my squicky band concerts in 8 years of school, who would take as many hugs from me as a child to see if my fingers could touch around his round belly. These and many more fond memories I will hold onto until we meet again. Love always,

My "fishing" advisor. I will miss your great red neck humor and swapping outdoor sporting stories with you. Don't forget there is no deep sea fishing in heaven but you can trout fish I am sure. See you at the north gate someday. Theresa
