My friend, where to begin. Let's start with Middle School. From singing into our curling irons, going to our first concert (ZZ Top w/David- boy he was one lucky guy taking us two teenagers with him), walking to the now Big Y plaza to buy cigarettes (we were so cool), hanging out at Roger's Arcade, swimming in your pool, picking on the neighborhood kids, hanging with Rick because he was one of the cool kids, talking on the phone for hours on end, 8th grade graduation dance and 8th grade promotion. We were now freshmen in high school. Then came Steven Folino. Although, Steve had been around in Middle School for a short time, we knew this time it was forever. You two were meant to be. Junior prom came and went. Senior banquet and graduation. Boy, we were free! No longer were we in high school. We went off to college and thought we knew it all. Time passed. We lost touch and boom, we found each other and took off right where we left off like time had not passed. I don't know where I would be today without you by my side. We may not have seen each other as often as we would have liked but god, did we have the best friendship. I knew you were always there and always would be. I am so happy that we stayed in touch throughout the past few years and grown close once again. I love you my friend and I always will. You were more than a friend. You were my sister. Thank you for all of the memories. I will cherish each and every one. Now is the time to rest. The suffering is over.
