Marylyn May Young

FEB 12, 2024

In the tapestry of life, Marylyn May Young's journey stands out as a vibrant and remarkable thread, woven with resilience, kindness, and love. Marylyn's life unfolded into a tapestry of love, family, and countless cherished moments. From the early years, Marylyn's favorite experiences. Her union with Roland Fredric Young, Jr. on July 11, 1953, faced challenges, but Marylyn's strength and determination. Marylyn found solace in the warmth of her Aunt Lucy's home, where the love for reading bloomed amid the pages of the Norwegian language, especially during challenging times, exemplified by Aunt Lucy's selfless dedication to her sons and Marylyn's role as a guiding force through struggles and triumphs. She tackled adversity with grace, often taking on responsibilities beyond her years, becoming a nurturing presence. Her bossy, showcased a compassionate and determined spirit. School posed its own set of challenges, but Marylyn's journey was transcending into an enchanting world of Shakespeare. High school accolades, including being the valedictorian of a class of eleven, reflected her academic achievements. Her life spanned various locations and roles, from making pies at age 12 to serving Olympians in Athens, Greece. Her years at McDonald's brought her a sense of purpose, including a torch relay for the Salt Lake City winter Olympics along the national route through York, Maine. Marriage brought both challenges and joys, from honeymooning at the Eastland Hotel in Portland, Maine, to exploring Hawaii, the Bahama Islands, London, Taiwan, and attending various events. Marylyn had three children- Roland, Robin and Rhonda who she parented and supported with unconditional love, patience and understanding, and never in anger or say an unkind word about anyone or anything. The worst phrases she uttered were "That's different" or "That's interesting" to her children's and most of her 8 grandchildren's lives. In her later years, facing changes with courage, Marylyn left her home in Nashua, NH, for a warmer climate. She found warmth and engaging in activities she loved. She walked three miles a day sporting colorful outfits, sparkling shoes, and fancy makeup. Her commitment to staying healthy, playing games, exercising, and staying connected with loved ones continued to define her life. Along with, a beacon of kindness, and a source of inspiration. Her personal best accomplishment, her kindness, and the art of offering help to others. Her share in her life. As we celebrate Marylyn May Young's life, we honor a woman whose journey embodies love, strength, and a spirit that always remained balanced, never losing her temper, and always approaching differences with kindness, curiosity and interest rather than anger. She is survived by her eleven grandchildren, one great-grandchild, and all those touched by her warmth and generosity. May her tapestry of life continue to inspire. Her life preceded in death by her Husband, Roland. She is survived by her children Roland F. Young, III and his wife Dona, Robin Young and her wife Rhonda. She is also survived by her eight grandchildren, Meghan Young and her wife Lisa, Wesley Young, Taylor Young, Jonathan Cournoyer, Jessica Adams, and Brooke Adams, and one great-grandchild, Roland M.
